

How we close the loop: Disseminating research outcomes

One of the barriers to research engagement is the invisibility of research outcomes. At Leeds and York Partnership NHS Foundation Trust's (LYPFT) R&D department we've addressed this by collecting and collating outcome information and providing tailored communication to our diverse stakeholders (internal and external). Researchers are made aware of their responsibility to report outcomes when studies are opened in the Trust.

This poster shows how we tell the stories of the research and service evaluation work we do and how this generates more research interest. We believe it is very necessary to support the whole research pathway and this poster focuses particularly on the often neglected celebration of results and outcomes
